

Public to See All of Mars Photos

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 6 flew within 2,130 miles of Mars early today, its cameras snapping closeups that a project spokesman promised would be "fascinating."

What the pictures contain was not immediately known but scientists were so sure the quality was excellent that they ordered them displayed on monitors for newsmen as soon as they are received at Jet Propulsion Laboratory starting at 8:36 EDT tonight.

They earlier had planned to study the pictures for 24 hours and then release selected prints. "We don't know exactly what we will see," a spokesman said, "and some of it may be confusing, but we are sure that many of the pictures will have fascinating details never seen before."

Mariner 6 and a sister spacecraft, Mariner 7, ran into technical problems overnight.

Mariner 6's trouble was minor — failure of a device designed to sense the chemical try of the thin Martian atmosphere.

The extent of Mariner 7's difficulty was not immediately determined. It went silent for several hours but technicians later picked up a weak signal after switching to another antenna. The spacecraft also appeared to be rolling.

"We don't know what the trouble is or whether it will affect Mariner 7's ability to send pictures when it comes within camera range Friday," a spokesman said.

Mariner 6, after televising late Wednesday night a series of approach photographs showing that Mars may be as crater-pocked as the moon, made a 17-minute camera run close to the Martian equator shortly after midnight.

Its path was over a band of dark areas thought by some scientists to be vegetation.

Twenty-four pictures were snapped and stored on tape for transmission earthward tonight.

Twelve pictures were taken by a telephoto camera and 12 by the wide-angled camera which made the earlier approach shots. Some of the wide-angled pictures were to cover hundreds of square miles. The telephoto camera was to snap highly magnified pictures of areas within the wide-angle frames, some showing details as small as 900 feet across.

In the field of view of the cameras were vast desert-like areas which earth telescopes show are traversed by thin lines long called canals, and dark areas with curving boundaries which seem to grow green in the spring and fade in summer. Mariner 6 was not designed to determine whether any form of life presently exists on Mars, only whether life could survive in its apparently hostile climate. The pictures to be displayed tonight might well show, however, any large geometrical structures—such as pyramids, temple ruins or other artifacts of an ancient civilization—if such exist.

Break for Small Payer Is Sought

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax reformers, working to give average taxpayers a better break, are considering either increasing the 10 per cent standard deduction or upping the $600 personal exemption.

Their decisions on tax relief will complete the broad reform bill scheduled for voting in the House next week.

Although more than half the House membership has expressed interest in raising the exemption, sentiment in the Ways and Means Committee apparently favors revising the standard deduction—which would cost the Treasury much less revenue.

A $100 exemption increase, it was estimated, would reduce tax yield nearly $3 billion, raising the standard deduction from 10 to 14 per cent and the ceiling on it from $1,000 to $1,800 was estimated to cost $1.2 billion.

Meanwhile, the committee has softened somewhat its proposed crackdown on the use of farm losses to reduce investors' nonfarm taxable income and on the use of certain oil industry preferences by well-to-do individuals.

Decisions to slash the oil depletion allowance and related benefits, however, were reaffirmed.

In its final review, the committee decided that only large operators in the farm field should be subjected to a new rule by which the Treasury would recapture special farm loss deductions when the farm property is sold. The rule, it specified, will apply only to persons with $50,000 or more non-farm income and farm losses of at least $25,000.

The committee reaffirmed its plan for a minimum income tax applying to individuals who have more than half their income protected by special deductions or shelters. But it said that in computing income for this purpose, deduction of intangible drilling costs and the excess of depletion over cost would not be considered special preferences.

Withdrawal of Troops to Be Slow One

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Contrary to reports that substantial withdrawals may be in order, members of the Senate Armed Services Committee expect Gen. Earle G. Wheeler to recommend a gradual pullout of only 25,000 additional U.S. troops from Vietnam this year.

This was the clear impression Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., George Murphy, R-Calif., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, said they received when Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified Wednesday at a closed committee session.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., classed Wheeler's report on his recent Vietnam inspection tour as pessimistic about the battle-readiness of South Vietnamese replacements for the Americans.

Stennis said the process of turning over the defense responsibilities will take time.

"In the meantime, unless we adopt a different policy, we'll be doing a great share of the fighting," he said.

President Nixon has promised an August decision on whether more than the 25,000 U.S. servicemen already reassigned from Vietnam will be withdrawn.

Executive department officials are citing the relative lull in the fighting as pointing toward a potentially substantial American pullback.

But Nixon has listed the safety of remaining U.S. forces and the ability of South Vietnamese to take over their own defense as having top priority in any decision.

Young, a consistent Vietnam policy critic, said Wheeler

"clearly indicated that the friendly forces of South Vietnam could not cope with the Viet Cong were we to bring more than 25,000 home this year."

Young called it a "discouraging briefing." He said Wheeler "stated and tried to indicate there isn't a vast difference of opinion between him and President Nixon."

Byrd and Murphy said Wheeler emphasized the safety of remaining American troops would permit only a relatively small American pullout, and that only on a gradual basis over a period of months.

Television and Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There comes a time in the life of nearly every television show when it has to make changes or run the risk of running out of new ideas. Such a time has come for "My Three Sons," beginning its 10th season on CBS. "Gunsmoke" can go on forever.

Gary and Terry spent a few days in Harrison visiting relatives, when they drove Sheila Wheeler to Camp Ferncliff, near Little Rock. All have returned home now.

Mrs. and Mrs. Bob Reynerson and Jeffery, Eureka Springs, are spending the week with Mrs. Evva Reynerson.

Dr. and Mrs. Lester Sitzes and sons vacationed in the Ozarks last week.

er, but we can't," said Fred MacMurray, the relaxed star of the show. "The kids grow up and grow in and out of problems. But it seems that almost anything you can do has been done."

So what's new is that MacMurray as Steve Douglas is taking a bride in the fall. She will be played by Beverly Garland. "I hope this is the right move," MacMurray said. "After 10 years you've got to make some changes. We've run out of things to do with the five men."

Miss Garland will play a widow who will bring along a young daughter.

Change is no stranger to "My Three Sons." Over the years the sons have changed, and when William Frawley died, William Demarest moved in. A few years ago, the family moved from the Midwest to California, where the oldest son, Rob, found a girl and got married.

Steve's marriage, like the birth of Rob's triplets last year, is timed to come early to build up the audience ratings. MacMurray will meet, woo and marry Miss Garland in the first eight shows.

"You might say we're getting married in self defense, because so many shows now have widowers with children," MacMurray laughed. There will be 12 shows in the coming season with widows or widowers with children.

MacMurray's long movie career, stretching back to 1934, has made him one of the richest men in Hollywood. His wacky comedies for Walt Disney were among the most reliable money-makers in the industry.

He was lured into television in 1960 only by an arrangement that allows him to shoot all of his scenes for the whole season at once. Then the cast completes the shows while MacMurray spends the rest of the year tending to his ranch and other enterprises, relaxing and playing golf.

"We shoot eight pages a day," he said. "I remember in the movies we used to do two pages a day. One in the morning and one in the afternoon. Boy, what a vacation."

Celtics Try to Hold on to Russell

By LARRY EIDRIDGE
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — One of the greatest stars in sports history appears today with the announced retirement of Bill Russell, the Boston Celtics star who has won four great player-coach awards, his first and last, in his 13th season.

General Manager Red Auerbach announced the news that the 35-year-old superstar plans to call it quits after leading the Celtics to 11 National Basketball Association championships in 13 years and revolutionizing the game with his defensive wizardry.

"He means it a thousand percent," Auerbach told a news conference Wednesday, "but by golly I intend to change his mind."

Russell, plagued by arthritic knees the past few years, has been eyeing movie and television possibilities more and more seriously of late, and has spent much of his time since the end of last season in Hollywood.

Wednesday night, during the taping of a Joey Bishop television show, Russell said he left basketball "because I almost got bored."

"Every time I started a game last year, I said, 'I've been through this before.' He said he became the player he was by devoting his heart and soul to the game but 'I've been playing for 25 years and that's enough time for anybody.'"

The show was taped in Hollywood for broadcast Thursday night. Russell said he was planning to go into television and also said he has signed to do a film in Spain. He won't elaborate on either, however.

Auerbach, however, isn't so sure that the film possibilities will be that plentiful—or that Russell can afford to pass up the $200,000 he would get for the final season of his current two-year contract with the Celtics.

"I told him, 'how many parts for a 6-foot-10 black man are there in movies?'—and he knows," the fiery general manager said.

"There is no question in my mind he must play one more year to become financially secure," he added. Auerbach said he had spent a great deal of time with Russell in the past day or so after the latter came to Boston from the West Coast "at his own expense just to tell me" of the decision to quit both playing and coaching.

"Russell believes he has retired, but I have not given up hope," Auerbach said. "I will not consider him retired until he does not show up for the first day of practice."

The general manager said Russell is completely happy with his Celtics' contract, and that money is not a factor there. "He's not being cute like some athletes who retire and then return when you wave a couple of thousand dollars in their face," he said. "He thinks that the condition of his knees and the mental fatigue should force him to call it quits. He told me he has no intention of playing."

Auerbach, who coached the Celtics to nine of their titles before turning over the reins to Russell three years ago, indicated he does not plan to return to the bench in any case.

Jets and
All-Stars
Friday Night

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Hempstead, N.Y. (AP) — "Sign my pants, Joe," squealed a teen-age miss, raising a thigh to Joe Namath's direction.

And so he did, carefully inking his full signature, Joe Willie Namath, on the frayed yellow jeans, then adding the words: "Love and peace."

And that's the atmosphere Namath is trying to maintain as he and the New York Jets approach Friday night's All-Star game in Chicago—the first test of the shaggy-haired quarterback's popularity rating following the end of his dispute with Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"That situation is over," Namath said sharply as he strolled across the Hofstra University campus Wednesday beset by autograph hunters. "It has nothing to do with Friday night or anything else. Nothing. That's long gone."

It will actually be only two weeks gone when Namath steps out on the field Friday night for the game to be televised nationally by ABC at 9:30 p.m., EDT, and there's no denying that Namath watchers are interested in analyzing the crowd reaction as a measure of his appeal in light of the dispute revolving around his East Side night spot.

Namath is expected to start the game and work the first half before giving way to Babe Parilli, but he probably will have to go without split end George Sauer, who will be replaced by Bake Turner if his sprained ankle still is troubling him.

While the crowd's reaction to Namath's first appearance may or may not be a factor, Namath does admit that just 10 days in camp—he missed the first week—had not given him enough time to perfect his timing.

"My legs are swollen," said Namath, "but that's normal. As long as I get my arm in shape, that's all that counts. Right now, I'm still off three-tenths to seven-tenths of a second—a step or two when you're talking about the ball arriving at the right spot."

"But the only thing I'm concerned about is that we don't ever want to lose a game, especially to a team just out of college. It's one thing to lose to a pro team, but we don't think these fellows are on a par with us."

Ex-Cardinal

St. Louis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John Sawatski, whose father once was catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, signed a professional contract with the Cardinals system Wednesday.

His father, Carl Sawatski, said the contract provided an incentive bonus as well as a substantial additional bonus. Figures were not disclosed.

Young Sawatski, 17, a Little Rock Hall High School graduate, first played organized baseball while his father played for St. Louis.

McNally One
Game Away
From Record

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dave McNally is feeling no pressure, feeling no pain, but he does feel very lucky.

What the 26-year-old Baltimore left-hander must be wondering after running his record to 15-0 with a 4-2 victory over Kansas City Wednesday night is "How lucky can I get?"

"No, I don't feel any pressure," he said, "I think probably I would feel it if I had pitched well in every game, but that hasn't been the case. I pitched badly enough to lose in six or seven games."

"I know it has to end sometime, but I'm very happy to get this far, and I'm enjoying it. I'd rather be winning like this than losing, but it's taken a lot of luck to do it."

McNally's No. 15 put him in the American League record book alongside Johnny Allen of Cleveland. McNally, with two victories at the end of the 1968 season, tied Allen's mark of 17 consecutive victories over two seasons, 1936-37, and Allen's record of 15 straight victories at the start of a season, 1937.

McNally now is just one triumph away from the league mark of 16 successive victories in one season set by four pitchers.

In other games, Detroit slipped by Minnesota 3-1, California tumbled Boston 4-1, the New York Yankees beat Oakland 3-2, Seattle nipped Washington 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox blasted Cleveland 11-6.

In the National League, San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3 and Houston crushed the New York Mets 16-3 and 11-5 in a doubleheader in the afternoon, and at night Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 4-2, St. Louis topped San Diego 5-2, Cincinnati downed Montreal 5-3 and Atlanta trimmed Philadelphia 6-3 before losing 4-3 in an at-winner.

McNally, who has only eight complete games in 26 starts, needed relief again against the Royals after the first batter opened the ninth inning with a single. Eddie Watt relieved and preserved McNally's 29th victory in his last 31 decisions, including a 12-game winning streak last season when he was 22-10.

Kansas City had scored two runs off him in the first inning, but he blanked them after that while the Orioles tied on Frank Robinson's 26th homer in the sixth and went ahead on Don Buford's two-run double in the seventh.

"It's amazing you can go that long without getting shut out," McNally, with a 2.83 earned run average, said in praise of his slugging teammates. "I can remember only one time I didn't get at least two runs."

He doesn't even believe he is losing as well as he did the first part of last season when he was 8-8, but he couldn't explain it. "I'm just not throwing the ball as well, although I don't feel any pain in my arm."

Harmon Killebrew couldn't be blamed if he felt some pain, after letting in three runs with two errors in Minnesota's loss. The first came when he let a grounder get by in the second inning, letting in one Detroit run, and the other was a wild throw in the eighth, allowing two more to score.

Andy Messersmith, 10-7, boosted his stock as one of the league's better young pitchers, winning his 10th game in his last 12 decisions, a four-hitter, for California. He also singled in a run to go with Jim Fregosi's homer and missed a second straight shutout in the ninth when Carl Yastrzemski doubled and scored on two wild pitches.

Bill Robinson's infield hit in the eighth inning broke a 3-3 tie for the Yankees.

Greg Goossen, recalled from the minors last week by Seattle, slammed his second homer of the game and third of the season in the seventh inning, also breaking a 3-3 tie. Teammate Jim Pappalardo homered earlier as did Mike Epstein for Washington.

The White Sox broke an eight-game losing streak as Walt Williams sliced a two-run single to put them into the lead and Bill Melton added a three-run homer to wrap it up.

Graham Has Know-How to Spill Jets

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — If trickery is needed to upset the Joe Namath-propelled New York Jets Friday night, Coach Otto Graham of the underdog college All-Stars has plenty of football credentials to provide it.

The array of 50 hand-picked, pro-bound college seniors of last fall groomed by Graham since July 11 will be a 17-point underdog in the 36th All-Star Game sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

The contest, to be televised nationally via ABC at 9:30 p.m., EDT, marks the first appearance in the Soldier Field classic by an American Football League club.

Unless Graham and his quarterback trio of Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame, Cincinnati's Greg Cook and Bobby Douglass of Kansas come up with something fancy or flashy, the result may not be much different than against the National Football League champs who rolled up a 24-9-2 record in the 35 previous All-Star games.

But in his last coaching trip to Chicago, as boss of the Washington Redskins, Graham sprang a tricky slot formation to whip the Chicago Bears 38-28 at Wrigley Field in a 1968 game the Bears squeezed into the baseball season at a financial loss figuring a cinch home opener win.

A year after his 1963 All-Stars scored the last collegiate triumph in the series, a 20-17 shading of the Green Bay Packers, Graham also came up with an innovation against the Bears in the 1964 All-Star Game. The Bears pulled off a 28-17 decision, but Graham delighted the Soldier Field crowd by using two quarterbacks at the same time, one taking the ball under the center and tossing wide to the other for another pass or run.

Otto, long-time passing star for the Cleveland Browns who was replaced as Redskin coach by Vince Lombardi, has the tools for some trick stuff of the same kind.

Quarterback Douglass, 6-foot 5, 215 pounds, is a powerful runner who throws a lefthanded pass. Another versatile All-Star is Iowa's Ed Podolak, listed as a running back, but who was a great pass-run quarterback for the Hawkeyes until his senior year.

With ticket sales boosted by the first Chicago display of Namath, who bombed the Baltimore Colts into stunning submission, 17-7, in the Super Bowl, Friday night's crowd may exceed 70,000.

Travs and Amarillo
Split Two

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Amarillo Giants had a doubleheader won Wednesday night except that Giant catcher Dave Rader didn't hold a third strike with two away in the bottom of the seventh.

Rogers Robinson followed with a two-run single that tied it and Danny Napoleon singled home the winning run in the eighth inning for a 7-6 Arkansas win in the nightcap of a Texas League doubleheader.

Amarillo won the opener 4-2 as Mike Frost posted his 10th victory. Homers by Chip Coulter and Bob Gundon were the only damaging blows off him but he needed help from David Hernandez on the last batter. Hernandez also would have saved the second game if his final strikeout had stood up.

Aaron Front
Man in the Westchester

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Tommy Aaron went into today's opening round of the $250,000 Westchester Classic a new man. He finally has the winners edge.

"I'm feeling great," the quiet, bespectacled Georgian said of his Monday's victory in the Canadian Open. "It's a great sense of accomplishment. I always wanted to know how winning feels."

Aaron has waited for that feeling for eight years, and when victory finally came, it came the hard way. He charged in from six shots back with a final round 64, forced leader Sam Snead into an 18-hole playoff, and clinched the title with a 70.

Aaron's steady game has won him $75,000 this year, good for 11th on the money list, and his career earnings at age 32 top $275,000. His best previous finishes this year were two seconds at Doral and Minnesota.

Aaron said his coup at Montreal gives him an edge in confidence for the world's richest golf tournament. But he admitted he's not keyed up as he might be.

"I feel wiped out because of the playoff," he said. Others with the winners edge shooting for the $50,000 first prize in the elite field of 156 include leading money winner Dave Hill, the tour's only three-time winner; defending champion Julius Boros; 1967 classic winner Jack Nicklaus; all-time great Arnold Palmer, British Open champion Tony Jacklin, U.S. Open king Orville Moody; Masters Champion George Archer, and Ray Floyd, winner of last week's American Golf Classic.

The lost art of "lending a helping hand" is not lost in Hope. Within 15 minutes after my arrival to my office Monday night, which was threatened by fire, many helpful people had 13 rooms of valuable equipment and furniture out of the building.
With their help and the help of the fine Hope Fire Department, my patients lost only one day of service.
Thank you, again,

Basketball Merger Is Likely

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Gardner, president of the two-year-old American Basketball Association, says he considers reports of a merger with the established National Basketball Association "just a lot of loose talk." But an official of the Los Angeles Stars, ABA, confirms there have been preliminary merger talks.

Gardner, owner of the Carolina Cougars, said Wednesday in a telephone interview that any "conversation on a merger, unless it comes from the commissioner of the NBA or the president of the ABA is just loose talk."

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said he had no knowledge of any merger meetings.

L.R. Robbery Suspect Held in Honolulu

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — FBI agents Wednesday night arrested in Honolulu an Arkansas charged with the $16,000 robbery of the Park Plaza branch of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association in Little Rock July 17.

Herbie E. Hoxie, special agent in charge of the Little Rock office of the FBI, announced the arrest by FBI agents of Ronald Jack Campbell, 23, of Little Rock.

Campbell was arrested at a Waikiki beach hotel to which he had just returned after driving a rented dune buggy.

Recovered with Campbell was a pearl-handled .22-caliber German-made revolver and nearly $14,000 in cash, Hoxie said.

Campbell did not resist arrest. He was jailed in the Honolulu City Jail, the FBI said.

Houston Gets 3 Homers in One Inning

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer
Pity poor Bob Tillman, The Atlanta Braves catcher cracked three consecutive home runs and still ran third in the long ball derby.

First the Houston Astros used the New York Mets picture as a blast-off pad in cracking a pair of grand slam homers in one inning, a National League record.

Then slugging Hank Aaron, Tillman's teammate no less, picked Wednesday night to slam his way into third place on the all-time list of home run hitters, clouting his 537th lifetime circuit, to pass former New York Yankees great, Mickey Mantle.

The Braves, in a homer-hitting twin-night doubleheader, split with the Phillies at Philadelphia, winning the first 6-3 on five homers, three by Tillman, Aaron's 27th and a solo shot by Felipe Alou.

The Phils came back in the nightcap to nip the Braves 4-3 on Richie Allen's eighth inning homer, his second of the game. Johnny Callison's homer had tied it earlier in the inning.

In afternoon games Houston swept past the Mets in a doubleheader, 16-3 and 11-5 and San Francisco whipped Chicago 6-3. In night action St. Louis stopped San Diego 5-2, Cincinnati rapped Montreal 5-3 and Pittsburgh downed Los Angeles 4-2.

In American League games, Chicago belted Cleveland 11-6, Baltimore stopped Kansas City 4-2, Detroit trimmed Minnesota 3-1, the New York Yankees edged Oakland 3-2, California beat Boston 4-1 and Seattle edged Washington 4-3.

Before the doubleheader began, Tillman said he was hitting everything off the end of his bat.

"I was dribbling the ball. It looked like a bleak night," the 210-pounder said. But it only turned bleak for Phillies southpaw Grant Jackson, who served up all five Braves gophers.

Tillman hit his blasts in the second inning, in the fourth and sixth. The three gave him nine for the season and he went into the game hitting .176.

The 35-year-old Aaron, in his 16th major league season, smacked his 537th around the foul pole in left field in the third inning on a 1-0 pitch. It placed him third behind Babe Ruth, with 714, and the Giants' Willie Mays, who has 596—nine this year.

Aaron said he baited Jackson. The first pitch was outside and "I leaned out over the plate for it. I hoped he'd come inside with a curve or slider. He did," Aaron said.

In the nightcap, Atlanta jumped out to a 2-0 lead but Al- len's first homer—in his 20th—in the fourth with a man on, tied it. The Braves moved ahead 3-2 in the seventh on Felix Millan's run-scoring double but Callison knotted it with his 10th circuit and Allen followed with his game-winner.

The Astros set a National League record in slamming the two grand slams in one inning—the ninth of the first game—by Denis Menke and Jimmy Wynn as the Astro scored 11 times for an easy victory.

Larry Dierker rapped a two-run homer in the third inning of the nightcap, concluding a 10-run inning and eased his way to his 13th victory.

The two grand slams in one inning had occurred only once before in major league history. Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison did it for the American League Minnesota Twins against Cleveland on July 18, 1962.

Pitcher Gaylord Perry opened a three-run ninth inning with a double and scored the tie-breaking run in the Giants victory over the Cubs.

Dave Marshall's single scored Perry and Bob Burda's wrapped it up with a two-run double, sending Perry to his 13th triumph.

Light-hitting Dal Maxville walloped a bases-loaded triple, keying a five-run seventh inning, that sent the surging Cardinals to their 18th victory in 23 games. Bob Gibson trucked out 13

WR Launches Speech Tour of N.W. Ark.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller headed for Northwest Arkansas today on the first of a series of tours designed to drum up support for more state taxes.

The governor will make 14 such tours.

The tour beginning today and continuing through Friday is to take him to Rogers, Fayetteville, Springdale and Sioam Springs.

Rockefeller said earlier this week that he will try to meet with legislators to see if they might approve more taxes.

When all the tours and talks are over, he will decide whether to call a special legislative session, he said Tuesday.

The tours also are characterized by the governor as an effort to learn what problems and opportunities face the people and how the state government can help.

The governor introduced a $95 million tax program in the legislature this year, but only about $22 million in new taxes was approved.

Padres in posting his 13th win. Tony Perez tied the game with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning and pinchhitter Ted Savage followed with a two-run double sending the Reds past the Expos.

Manny Sanguillen rapped a tie-breaking eighth inning single, helping the Pirates to their victory over the Dodgers. Sanguillen scored the insurance run on a single and passed ball.

Haiti was the first Negro republic in the world.

Snead Not Thinking of Retirement

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) —

"Call it quits? Not me—I'll play as long as these old legs and nerves can stand it," Sam Snead drawled.

The familiar coconut straw, at a jaunty angle, hid the balding pate of the 57-year-old golfing marvel. Tykes, refugee from Arnie's Army, swarmed around him for autographs. Middle-aged men in the gallery cheered their hero: "Give 'em the devil, Sam!", "Go get 'em, Sam!" The seemingly ageless Slammin' Sammy, perspiration streaming in small beads down his leathery face, elbowed his way through throngs of admirers at the Westchester Country Club and jested about his newly-discovered Fountain of Youth.

He had just shot a five-under-par 67 in the pro-am prelude to the $250,000 Westchester Classic Wednesday. A few days before, he had excited the sports world by trying for the Canadian Open crown and then losing in a close playoff to Tommy Aaron.

"Putting tips? Nerves? I still fight 'em—I fight 'em like a tiger," he said. "Sure, I feel 'em out there but I grit my teeth and I say, 'You're not gonna whip me.'"

Snead, winner of more than 100 tour tournaments in a career covering more than 30 years, admitted that it's nerves—and not the legs or physical deterioration—that cuts short the career of the competitive golfer.

"Physically," Sam said, "I feel almost as strong as I ever did. From tee to green, I hit the ball as well as I did in the 1930s. It's putting that gets me.

Nerves. I'm fighting 'em all the time." It was Ben Hogan who said at the Masters: a couple of years ago that he left his "blood in every hole." "I don't talk like Ben," Sam said. "But I know how he felt." "I intend to play as long as the money is big," Sammy said. Snead, a hillbilly from Hot Springs, Va., playing out of the Greenbrier Club in White Sulphur Springs, West Va., was the newest of rookies when he won his first tournament in Oakland, Calif., in 1937.

He had a head full of hair, 30-inch waist a pair of squeaking brogan shoes, and a drawl that made four syllables out of

"Howdy." After he won it, he challenged the Masters: a couple of years ago that he left his "blood in every hole." The next day, a friend showed him his picture in the New York Times. "This is a hoo," Sam raved. "I've never been to New York in my life."

"Girl" Hurricanes The practice of calling Atlantic hurricanes by girls' names first started with novelist George R. Stewart in his book, "Storm," written in 1941. In this book, the hero, a young meteorologist, christens the storms after girls he had known.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Artificial Sweeteners Contain No Calories

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—Is the laxative effect of cyclamate dangerous? Are cyclamates beneficial to diabetics and, if so, in what way?

A—The laxative effect is mild and can easily be controlled by gradually reducing your intake of vegetables and fruit. Artificial sweeteners in general have their greatest usefulness in the treatment of diabetics because their caloric intake is restricted and the sweeteners contain no calories.

Q—I have just joined TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly). One of the members said that the cyclamate in diet foods will eventually cause brain damage. Do you agree?

A—Cyclamate in moderation has been found to be perfectly safe. Try not to get more of it than 3.5 grams a day. It will not cause brain damage.

Q—Pure honey is said to be good for quick energy. How would it affect a person with borderline diabetes?

A—The sugar in honey does supply energy quickly. Since any kind of diabetic should be on a measured amount of carbohydrate, protein and fat, he should count the honey as pure carbohydrate and balance the amount eaten against the rest of his prescribed diet.

Q—Could a boy with a coloboma of the left eye be drafted?

A—A coloboma is a congenital defect of the iris. This boy would be acceptable in the armed forces if his vision, which is not dependent on the iris, meets the minimum standard.

Q—An eye doctor says my father, 72, has macular edema. What caused it and what is the best treatment for it?

A—This swelling of the retina at its central point may be caused by nephritis, brain tumor, inflammation of the optic nerve or lead poisoning. The treatment must be directed at the cause.

Q—What is meant by macular degeneration? What causes it? Does it lead to blindness?

A—Degeneration of the point of central vision may occur as a result of an injury to the eye or as a part of growing old. It occurs in some persons at a relatively early age (late 40s or early 50s). It causes a loss of central vision and there is no effective treatment. (Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Peter the Great, famous for his attempts to Westernize Russia in the 18th century, was attracted not by Western culture, but by Western military power and industrial productivity. To increase Russian productivity, Peter started by encouraging sobriety. The World Almanac says, He made all men jailed for drunkenness wear a "medal for hard drinking" around their necks during their imprisonment. The medal weighed 18 pounds.

South went right up with dummy's ace of clubs and lost no time playing ace and a small diamond. He ruffed the next club, ruffed a diamond and started happily after trumps. When East showed out on the second trump, South stopped to study the hand but the boat had sailed without him. He had to go down one trick.

South remarked, "I guess I bid too much, but the contract was all right. Trumps just never break for me."

The contract was a good one indeed, and South could have made it, bad break and all, if he had just played with a little caution.

At trick two, he should have ruffed a club. Then he could have played ace and another diamond. East would almost surely have won the diamond and would have seen no reason not to lead another club.

South would trump that also, ruff his last diamond in dummy and then lead trumps. East would show out on the second trump lead but that wouldn't hurt South. He would simply lead a spade to dummy's ace, ruff dummy's last club with his last low trump and wind up making all of his six trumps, the three side aces and the diamond ruff in dummy.

West would still make his jack of trumps but he would ruff his partner's good spade with it.

Of course, there was some risk to this line of play. West, given only a few clubs, together with three trumps to the jack, might overruff a club to set an otherwise lay-down contract. Furthermore, the hand still could have been beaten if East had just led a trump instead of a club when he got in with the diamond. South would never be able to score his three small trumps.

Unified Court Is Choice of Convention

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — By a 41-38 vote Wednesday, the state Constitutional Convention adopted a provision to grant judicial power to a single court which would operate in trial and appellate divisions. By that action, the convention delegates approved a proposed judicial article to create in Arkansas a unified court system. The power of changing judicial districts is presently vested in the legislature, but the convention Wednesday approved a proposal to give such authority to the Supreme Court. The high court also would have the power to create subject matter divisions within the judicial districts. Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, a convention delegate, said that the legislature "just will not redistrict," although it currently has the power to do so. The unified court system would permit the consolidation of courts of law and equity — circuit and chancery courts. The convention reaffirmed its decision to have state Supreme Court and trial court judges elected, rather than appointed. The Supreme Court justices and district court judges would be elected to six-year terms and would on a nonpartisan basis. The delegates also voted to create a judicial ethics commission by the proposed constitution. Such a commission as proposed "would have the authority to investigate the conduct and competency of members of the judicial department, but the delegates have yet to vote on whether the proposed constitution actually would assign such functions to the commission.

2 Accidents in City This Morning

Police investigated two accidents Thursday morning, the first at 11:15 a.m. on West 19th Street near Memorial hospital when a car driven by Kelly Eakley backed out of an emergency street onto Elm street and hit a parked car belonging to Linda Thompson. Eakley was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way by the investigating officer, Neal. A second accident at 11:45 a.m. involved a truck driven by William Harrell of Little Rock. Attempting to turn right at the corner of Third and South Main streets, Harrell's truck edged into the wrong lane and turned into a car driven by Miss Clarice Cannon. Harrell was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way by City Officer Johnson.

for Rogers' departure for Seoul. All escaped injury, but Meyer was knocked down. The lucky assailant, identified by police as Shigetugu Hamakaka, 21, was disarmed by security guards. Police reported at first that Meyer, 55, was his target. Later police said Hamakaka refused to talk and they believed Rogers may have been his target. Rogers was in Tokyo for a three-day meeting of U.S. and Japanese cabinet ministers that ended today. Some officials said earlier they were surprised that the conference did not result in any major leftist demonstrations against the United States. The attack at the airport was swift, and some officials were not aware of it until afterward. Foreign Minister Kishi Aichi called at the embassy to express his regrets over the incident, which recalled the stabbing in 1964 of U.S. Ambassador Edwin R. Reischauer. A dangerous Japanese youngster knifed him in the thigh in the embassy compound.

the Vietnam war. Ignoring the hecklers, Nixon got out of his limousine and shook hands with cheering persons nearby, then returned to the car and drove on as the demonstrators surged toward him. Nixon saw the second anti-American demonstration of the day as he drove to the Mohandas Gandhi Memorial — the Rajghat Samadhi — near the Jumna River to lay a memorial wreath. Near the memorial, to the leader of Indian independence, several hundred demonstrators waved clenched fists, shouted "go home" and waved black and red flags. Nixon, who stood up in his limousine during much of the drive, sat down while passing the hostile group. En route to the memorial, Nixon escaped possible injury when he stopped his motorcade to greet a crowd standing behind a concrete fence. He walked over to shake some outstretched hands. Under the press of the throng, the fence toppled toward him but a Secret Service man pulled him out of harm's way. Nixon remained until he saw that no one was hurt, then went on his way. After a 90-minute meeting with Nixon, Mrs. Gandhi told a news conference that "I think America has come a long way toward what is our policy" in Vietnam. "We have said from the beginning that the Vietnamese should be left to decide their own future without any outside interference — that all foreign troops should withdraw," she said. Mrs. Gandhi added that a Communist takeover of Vietnam would not affect India "very much." "It's up to the Vietnamese people to decide what sort of government they want," she said. "And of course it depends on what sort of communism. I mean, we have many different kinds in the world and some of them are going toward a certain degree of liberalization." Mrs. Gandhi sketched India's own ideas on regional security for Asia — a subject she said she and Nixon touched on "only generally." Mrs. Gandhi reiterated that India does not believe in the idea that a British or American withdrawal from Asia will create a political and military vacuum in the region. Tourist Dies of Heart Attack Here Mrs. Edith Martisoff, 37, of Bossier City, La., sustained a heart attack while dining at the Plaza restaurant on U.S. 67 East about 1 p.m. today and was removed by ambulance to a local hospital, which pronounced her dead upon arrival. With Mrs. Martisoff at the time were her husband, who is stationed at Barksdale Field, and their two children. Her body was taken to Hernando Funeral Home, which announced it will be sent to Pennsylvania for burial. To Prohibit Prosecutors Practicing LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention today approved a proposal outlining the duties of prosecuting attorneys, including prohibiting them from engaging in the private practice of law during his term. The proposal was approved 72-2 after the delegates crushed a proposed amendment to strike the language barring the private practice. Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton offered the amendment. He said that if prosecutors weren't allowed to practice law their salaries should be increased considerably. "Don't saddle the taxpayers with this additional money," Harvey said. "He's the person getting less consideration from us than anyone and he's the fellow paying for us being down here." The amendment was defeated 15-59. Opponents of the amendment said there was an appearance of a conflict of interest when a prosecutor is allowed to practice law privately. "It works as an ambulance-chasing device," said Henry C. Morris of DeQueen. There are too many opportunities for wrong doing." O. C. Burasie Jr. of Lake Village said he believed the state would save money and also strengthen law and order by preventing prosecutors from practicing law.

Living Cost Rise May Be Tapering Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American consumer may be seeing a glimmer of light at the end of the long tunnel of inflation as new government figures indicate the soaring cost of living is slowing down. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Wednesday a dramatic reduction in the upward rate of wholesale prices, most significantly in the cost of cattle. Statistics showed cattle prices for the month that ended July 15 were down $1.60 per hundredweight from the mid-June figure of $29.60 — an 18-year high. In anticipating this drop, Agriculture Department economists said earlier in the week a fall off in the cost of cattle would lead to some reduction in the price of meat sold over the butcher counter. However, several notes of caution have been introduced. "You have to be careful about placing too much significance in one month's figures, but it does seem fairly significant," Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said. And, Chase went on, it could be several months, perhaps not until October, before the drop in cattle prices will percolate down to the housewife in the form of lower meat costs. Other, nongovernment, economists also entered a pessimistic note, saying consumer demand — fed by inflation and rising spending power — could override the cattle price drop at the retail level.

Pope Leaves on Tour of E. Africa

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer
KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Pope Paul VI, welcomed to Africa's heartland by thumping drums and dancing women in short skirts, told African Roman Catholics today to follow the conservative core of Church teachings but to tinge them with their own heritage. He made this point in an address at the closing session of the first all-Africa bishops' symposium after hundreds turned out to welcome the first pontiff ever to visit the Dark Continent. This was the 71-year-old Paul's eighth trip abroad as Pope. At the airport of this capital on the shore of Lake Victoria, Africans sang songs and pounded native drums in a typical African greeting. Women in brass and short skirts swayed to the rhythms. In his address at Kampala's Rubaga Cathedral, the Pope warned that if Africa went its own way in interpreting Roman Catholic doctrine it would be led to "dangers." "If you are able to avoid the possible dangers of religious pluralism, the danger of making your Christian profession into a kind of local folklore, or into exclusivist racism, or into egotistic tribalism or arbitrary separatism, then you will be able to remain sincerely African even in your interpretation of Christian life," he said. It was an indirect reply to statements at the three-day bishops' conference that the Catholic Church especially in Europe and America was using Africa as a testing ground for its own problems, and that Africa was not able to develop its own brand of Catholicism. The Pope made clear that the Vatican was making room for new reforms in "expression," that is the language and mode of manifesting this one faith may be manifold. "From this point of view, a certain pluralism is not only legitimate but desirable," he said.

Millwood Lake Information

The Millwood Fishing Report shows that pool elevation is about normal at 258.20 and tailwater is 231.40. Visitation for the month of June is 224,100. Discharge is 160 cubic feet per second. Condition of lake is reported clear. Bass fishing is good on minnows and artificial bait. Crappie fishing is good on minnows. Bream fishing is fair on worms and crickets. And catfish are good on shad. Lyndon B. Johnson was first elected to the U.S. Senate in November, 1948, with an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

Tvardovsky would be ousted from the editorship of Novy Mir (New World), a magazine that has resisted the more extreme forms of sycophancy toward the system. Ironically, Kuznetsov was one of the new members put on the Yuzovsk board after the purge of the Yevushenko group. That the 39-year-old author enjoyed this trust just before his defection could be counted on to increase official wrath against him. The government might prefer to ignore his case altogether. No matter what is said, the embarrassing fact will remain that he left the country even though enjoying a privileged position. But Western news broadcasts beamed into the Soviet Union will make the public aware of his defection and the government will then want to make its side known. This has been the procedure before. Kuznetsov should get particularly harsh treatment because he apparently was considered a trusted Communist although at least two of his books were severely criticized. He would not have been permitted to leave the country if there had been serious doubts about his loyalty. The last well known Soviet writer to defect, Valery Tarsis, was deprived of his Soviet citizenship when he fled to Britain in 1966. The Soviet authorities accused him of being a madman after he asserted that communism in this country had degenerated into "police fascism." This a favorite Kremlin device, both for dealing with defectors and with dissenters within the country and defectors. The reasoning is that anybody who finds life in the Soviet Union unsatisfactory cannot be in his right mind. Kuznetsov's novel "Babi Yar" was condemned by conservative Soviet Communists because it told of Russian and Ukrainian collaboration in the Nazi massacre of the Jews during the World War II occupation of the Ukraine. His recent novel "Fire" was attacked because it portrayed Soviet workers as thing seemed to be so different — like the shopping centers and the hot weather. One surprise Virpi got was the length of skirts. "Before I left," she said, "I was told skirts here were long so I had to lengthen all my skirts. When I came here, I just had to shorten them again." She said teen-agers here and in Finland are pretty much the same, but "American youth is more mature." Asked about American boys, she rolled her eyes slightly and said, "very nice, quite polite." Koss, 19, said he found American life "very casual." He said, "cynics, scoundrels, self-seekers and alcoholics." In the words of one critical journal, The London Daily Telegraph, which Kuznetsov contacted when he decided to defect, said the author's wife had left him some time ago and took their 9-year-old son. She is reported on a holiday in the south of Russia.

FUN AND GAMES are part of the course for Temple University students Frank Palatucci, left photo, and Jacklyn Goodman, right. The two and 38 classmates earn three credits each for romping on the grassy campus of Pennsylvania School for the Deaf (PSD) in Philadelphia. In doing so, they create and participate in a well-rounded recreation program based on educational psychology theories. Up a tree with Frank is Sandra Harmon while Arlene Weinstock flies a kite with Jacklyn. Before affiliating, educational psychology students at Temple did most of their field work with ghetto children and the handicapped children at PSD had free time on the playground rather than a recreational program. The new course has proven so successful, it will continue as a permanent arrangement.

Diversion of School Funds Charged

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP) — The four school districts in Chicot County filed a Chancery Court suit Wednesday alleging that Sheriff Max Brown had illegally diverted to his office money that should have gone to the school districts.

The suit asks for a judgment of more than $25,000 against Brown.

Eugene R. Warren of Little Rock, attorney for the Arkansas Education Association, filed the suit for the four districts, which are the Dermott, Lakeside, Eudora and Chicot County districts.

Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the AEA, said the districts asked the AEA last month to audit the books of the sheriff and collector. He said the districts authorized the suit.

Rozzell said last month that in some counties excess tax collector's fees had been diverted to the sheriff's office in violation of the state Constitution.

The state Supreme Court has ruled that the offices of sheriff and collector are separate, although the two offices are held by one person in most counties.

The suit said Brown charged expenses of the sheriff's office against the funds of the collector's office rather than keeping the transactions of one office separate from the other.

The net effect of such action, according to the suit, is to diminish the amount of money in the collector's office, thereby reducing the amount it would turn over to the county treasury for distribution to political subdivisions, including school districts.

The suit said it would be difficult to determine the exact amount due to the school districts, but it divided the estimated amount this way: Dermott $4,840.89; Lakeside, $8,715.95; Eudora, $10,224.48; and Chicot County, $1,605.82.

STITCHIN' TIME

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

Back-to-school means back-to-sewing for all the millions of mothers and daughters who start now on serious stitchin' time. Fall is the season for expert tailoring, for linings and interlinings, for working with woolsens and furs and velvets. Anyone can sew a summer shift; it takes skill to sew for winter.

To put you in the mood, start on a warmup or kick-off project, something that gives a big fashion score for your time-and-cash investment. Today's idea is a quick-and-easy brainstorm by Burlington, guaranteed to warm you on crisp September mornings or flatter you on social September evenings.

The secret is a 54-inch square of fleecy blanket-weight wool, woven with no raw edges and all ready to be turned into a warm poncho, cape, pullover, stole or hostess skirt with minimum sewing. It is woven with a fringed section every 54 inches and is cut from the bolt so both cut ends are fringed. The simple, wearable designs make the most of the fringe, which is equally effective on traditional tartans, punchy plaids or contemporary stripes.

The skirt-and-scarf combo, for instance, just involves cutting the skirt to the right length, so the fringe acts as the hem and giving it a side seam and ribbon belt. Because of the weight of the wool, details involving double thicknesses (such as zippers and self-belts) are not recommended. The cut-off portion is shown used as a co-ordinating scarf, but it could also be used for pockets, a headscarf, a drawstring bag or sweater trim.

The pullover requires only neck and sleeve binding of ribbon or velvet and is a casual, comfortable topper for slacks. The other designs in the series are just as simple and just as effective... especially the classic poncho which keys the group.

The 54-inch fringed cut is also useful with no sewing at all, as a lap robe, stadium warmer, carriage cover or

Guilty Plea in Shooting of Trooper

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — Jessie Ring, 31, of Batesville pleaded guilty Tuesday at his arraignment on a first-degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of State Police Trooper Allen Buford.

Buford was killed Sunday when shot in the head with a .22-caliber Derringer while trying to give a speeding ticket to a motorist three miles south of Batesville on Arkansas 14A.

Ring was arraigned before Circuit Court Judge Andrew Ponder.

Before the arraignment, Ring conferred with Bill Arnold, the court-appointed attorney. Arnold then asked for a postponement of the hearing, saying he was notified Monday that he was to handle the case and didn't know all the facts.

FAKE POT PUTS BOY IN SOUP Dear Helen: My boy friend is a showoff. Most kids are when they're 14, and I wish my mother would see this.

The other day he and another guy got hold of some cigarettes. They took off the filter tip, twisted both ends, and covered them with brown roll-your-own paper that they'd drawn flowers on. That wasn't enough. They ever wrote "Pot" on the sides.

Then they walked down the street swinging them in front of everybody. Well, of course, somebody blabbed to my parents that Jerry was on pot, and no matter how much I try to explain it was all a joke, my mother says he is a bad influence and I can't have him come over any more.

Jerry doesn't even smoke tobacco. Why do parents have to be so uptight? —D.D.

Dear D.: Because the mere mention of drugs put parents in a swivel. If they can remember back to the pranks they used to play, maybe they'll soon be laughing about the "pot" that put a boy in the soup. —H.

Dear Helen: I sent for your "WHAT IS A BOY FRIEND?" "WHAT IS A GIRL FRIEND?" and loved them. Here's my six-cents worth on:

WHAT IS A LITTLE BROTHER Without him you would be the youngest — what a drag!

Who else can you get to do all your dirty work for the promise of a snow-cone? He's the easiest to bribe.

When you're sick he stays by your side to amuse you, and reads you stories like "The Three Bears." He loves to mess up your room and take your things, loves to listen in on your phone calls then giggle and tell the whole neighborhood that his sister has a boy friend. He's real good at hiding when your friends come over, so he can report on what the big kids said, to his little pals — with a little exaggeration!

But with all that he does, when HE is sick you stay by his side to help him get well, and this is when YOU read "The Three Bears." —RAE H.

Dear Helen: This isn't a world-shaking question, but I'd like to know? Why the heck do chocolate companies put pink and green-centered chocolates in their "assorted" boxes? I never met anyone yet who liked them, so what happens is all the chocolates get squeezed, and the guy who comes in last gets the rejects — or else gives them to the little neighbor kids who will eat anything.

They charge enough for candy nowadays so they could fill all of chocolates with the good stuff. Right? —NOT A FONDANT FAN

Dear Not: Right! I too think the pinks and greenies are utter wastes! —H.

Dear Helen: What are the two greatest causes of death among college students? —T.R.E.

Dear T: Automobile accidents rank first, then suicides. So says Dr. Matthew Ross of Harvard Medical School. He adds, "Among youths 15 to 19 years old, auto accidents and cancer produce more deaths than suicide, but in both age groups, the number of suicides has been rising." —H.

Mrs. Nixon on Side-Trip in Vietnam

By FRANCES LEWINE

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — With armed guards and helicopters flying cover, First Lady Pat Nixon made two trips into the South Vietnamese countryside today to cheer soldiers at the 24th Evacuation Field Hospital at Long Binh and visit war orphans.

Her surprise trip with President Nixon made her the first U.S. First Lady to visit the Vietnam war zone.

Mrs. Nixon explained her mission: "I wanted to say hello to the men who are doing so much for us. They're wonderful young men."

She spent 20 minutes shaking hands in three wards where about 40 soldiers were recovering from fevers, wounds and accident injuries.

The President's wife shook their hands, patted the young men lying in rows of hospital beds in blue pajamas, and wished them "good luck" and "God bless you" and the press secretary handed out ball point pens with Mrs. Nixon's autograph on them as souvenirs.

Mrs. Nixon toured the Thu Duc Orphanage near Saigon, where there are 744 war orphans, and visited with them for 45 minutes. The children sang, performed folk dances and she patted them on their heads.

Between her stops at the orphanage and the 24th Evacuation Hospital, Mrs. Nixon spent 1½ hours having tea with Mrs. Nguyen Van Thieu, wife of the Vietnamese president, and Mrs. Nguyen Cao Ky, the vice president's wife, and the wives of other government officials.

Asked if she was afraid of coming to the war zone, Mrs. Nixon replied: "No, I'm protected."

Mrs. Nixon had said earlier she wanted to come to Vietnam "so she could see some of the servicemen and tell them how much people back home appreciate what they are doing for their country," a press spokesman said.

Astronauts Talk Today to Public

By PAUL REGER
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 11 moon men, free so far of any discernible effects from lunar dust, discuss their great adventure today with fellow members of the astronaut corps—some of whom hope to make moon trips themselves.

Nell A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins scheduled a daylong seminar on their experience, talking from behind the walls of their quarantine chamber.

Dr. Craig Fischer said Wednesday that almost-completed blood tests of the trio showed them "quite normal" with no changes "due to contact with lunar surface."

Meanwhile, scientists in another part of the lunar receiving laboratory prepared to inject moon dust directly into veins of an earth creature for the first time.

The scientists planned to put pulverized lunar material into a solution and inject it into germ-free white mice. If there are moon microbes in the dust, the mice are expected to respond rapidly.

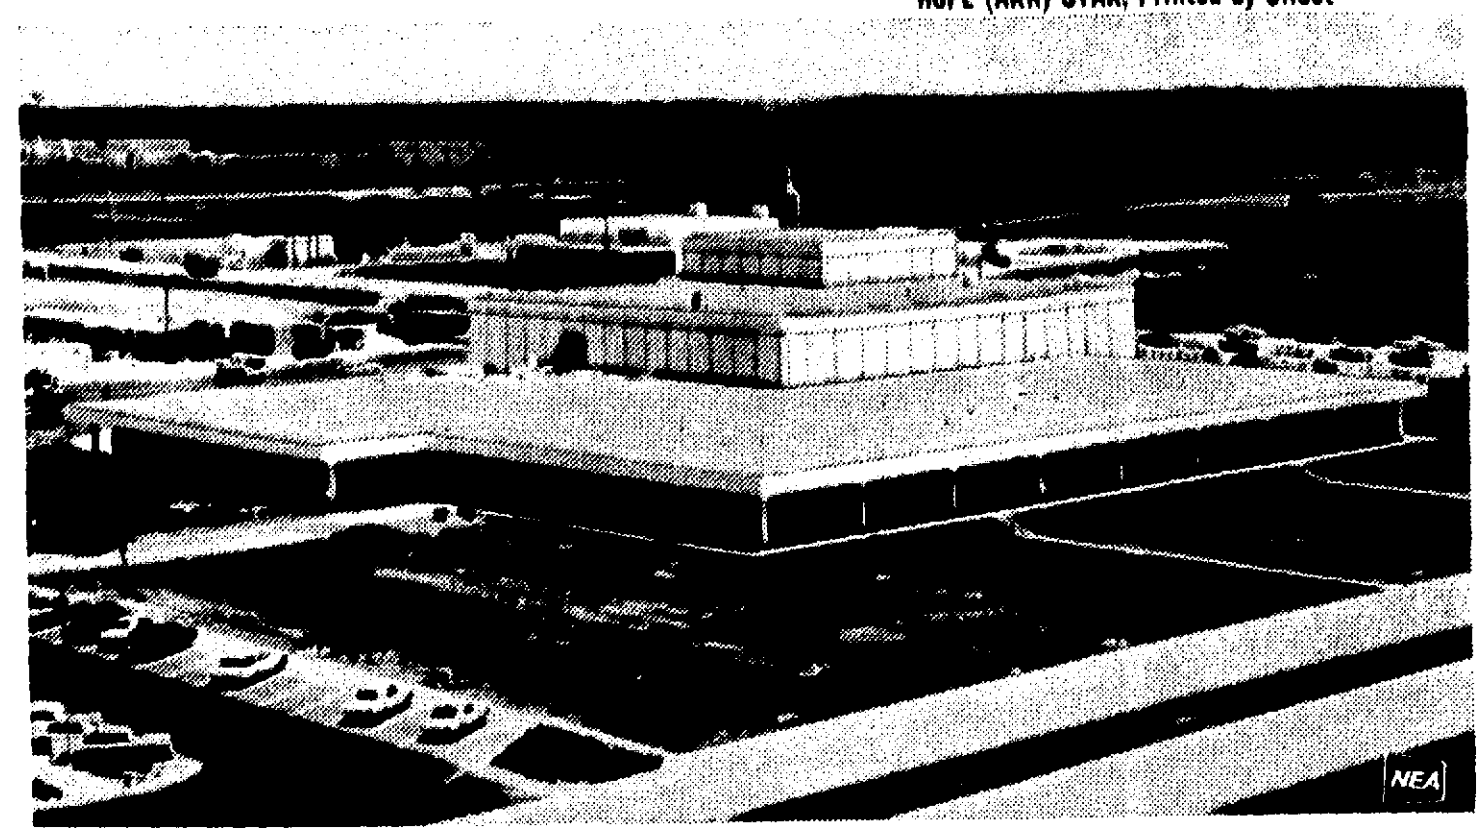

Sterilized bits of the moon will also be injected into the animals to test possible toxic effects.

Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins may spend part of the early evening revisiting Columbia, the space ship that carried them on the lunar round trip.

The cone-shaped craft was brought to the LRL Wednesday to go into quarantine in the crew area today. An engineer isolated with the crew, John Hirasaki, will complete deactivation of the spacecraft's thrusters and other equipment.

Hirasaki said the astronauts might climb into the spaceship, either to recover any personal gear left on board or just to look around. "Some mysteries of the moon have begun to unravel as scientists work with rocks that the Apollo 11 crew brought to earth and listen to instruments left on the moon."

An Australian scientist at the center completed the first chemical analysis of lunar dust and said, "The geochemistry of

Feud Springs Out of Job Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Partisan fighting has sharpened the Senate probe into possible conflict-of-interest charges against Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman Hamer H. Budge.

A party-line split developed even before the first witness testified Wednesday during a hearing into Budge's consideration of a lucrative job offer with a group of mutual funds regulated by the SEC.

Democrats on the Senate banking and currency subcommittee questioned the propriety of Budge's actions and Republicans argued the President Nixon appointee was being convicted before being tried.

The hearing recessed before Budge could testify about the offer of the presidency of six Minneapolis-based funds managed by Investors Diversified Services Inc. He was told to return to the subcommittee Monday to present his case.

Other testimony, said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., showed "a gross, clear, transparent conflict of interest."

This drew a rebuke from Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who said, "On the evidence we've had so far, you can't even in common sense come to that conclusion."

san fighting has sharpened the Senate probe into possible conflict-of-interest charges against Securities and Exchange Commission Chairman Hamer H. Budge.

A party-line split developed even before the first witness testified Wednesday during a hearing into Budge's consideration of a lucrative job offer with a group of mutual funds regulated by the SEC.

Democrats on the Senate banking and currency subcommittee questioned the propriety of Budge's actions and Republicans argued the President Nixon appointee was being convicted before being tried.

The hearing recessed before Budge could testify about the offer of the presidency of six Minneapolis-based funds managed by Investors Diversified Services Inc. He was told to return to the subcommittee Monday to present his case.

Other testimony, said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., showed "a gross, clear, transparent conflict of interest."

This drew a rebuke from Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who said, "On the evidence we've had so far, you can't even in common sense come to that conclusion."

The president of the funds, Harold Bradford, testified

Budge rejected the presidency on two occasions and "at no time" solicited the job.

Minutes of a board meeting of fund directors—read by subcommittee chairman Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.—quoted a company lawyer as saying Budge told him "he would like to accept the offer but his boss (Nixon) might like him to stay on the job till he finds a successor."

The presidency would have paid $80,000 a year to Budge, who earns $40,000 annually as SEC chairman.

Proxmire and Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said the significant aspect of a possible conflict of interest was that Budge was negotiating for a job at the same time the SEC was advising Congress on legislation which would drastically revise mutual fund regulations and have a strong bearing on the funds' business.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, argued, "The fact is, he rejected the offer and I think we are going into this thing backwards."

Proxmire said Budge should have refused to negotiate at all.

War Deaths 2nd Lowest of Year

SAIGON (AP) — American battlefield deaths in Vietnam last week dropped to their second lowest total in nine months, reflecting the current lull in the war, the U.S. Command announced today. The total was lower only during one holiday truce period.

The weekly casualty summary reported that 110 Americans were killed in action during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday. Since last Oct. 26, when 109 U.S. troops were killed, the total was less only during the week of Dec. 29-Jan. 4, when a New Year's cease-fire was in effect and 101 Americans died in combat.

U.S. and South Vietnamese headquarters also reported that 1,963 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed last week, the lowest reported enemy toll since last Nov. 3-9. The claim then was 1,601 enemy killed.

It was also the first time since last Nov. 9 that the enemy toll had fallen below the 2,000 mark.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 290 government troops killed in action last week, a slight decrease from 295 reported the week before.

The total of 100 Americans killed last week was 60 per cent less than the 182 reported killed two weeks ago. It was also 48 per cent less than the weekly average of 230 American battlefield deaths so far this year.

U.S. headquarters also reported 1,056 Americans wounded in action last week, the lowest number since the week of the New Year's cease-fire, when 599 U.S. troops were wounded.

South Vietnamese wounded last week totalled 83, the lowest total in the past four weeks.

Only small skirmishes have been reported generally across South Vietnam during the past six weeks. The lull in sustained major ground fighting ended its seventh week Thursday.

The U.S. casualty report showed that 37,459 Americans have been killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961. More than a third of this number—14,508—have died since North Vietnam and the United States opened preliminary peace talks in Paris 15 months ago. Of the total American dead, 7,402 have been killed since last Dec. 7 when the talks were expanded to include the South Vietnamese government and the Viet Cong.

Another 242,220 Americans have been wounded in action in the Vietnam war, but only about half of this number required hospitalization, according to the U.S. Command.

At the same time, allied headquarters claim that 533,045 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed in fighting since Jan. 1, 1961.

Kennedy Is Returning to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy returned to his Senate duties today and confirmed he will not seek the presidency in 1982.

The Massachusetts Democrat, walking through throngs of tourists up the main steps to the Senate chamber, was asked whether his decision not to run was irrevocable.

"That's right," Kennedy replied. "I intend to fill out my Senate term if I am re-elected."

Asked if he would run under any other circumstances Kennedy replied shortly, "No."

The senator said he was returning to take part in the debate over the surtax and the deployment of the proposed antiballistic missile.

He held no news conference but talked to newsmen who trotted behind him through the crowds of curious, camera snapping tourists.

Capitol police blocked newsmen from entering the Capitol itself and Kennedy went directly onto the Senate floor.

Crowds of newsmen and tourists were so thick that when Kennedy arrived, sitting in the passenger seat of a car driven by an aide, he had difficulty opening the door.

Kennedy, in a statement released Wednesday at his Boston office, said he will remain in the Senate, will seek re-election next year and, if he wins, will serve a full six-year term.

That would rule out any 1972 bid for the presidency which his brother, John, won in 1960 and which his brother, Robert, sought in 1968. Both were assassinated.

Edward Kennedy's announcement: "Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is returning to Washington to resume his duties as United States senator and assistant majority leader."

"He is grateful to the people of Massachusetts for their expressions of confidence and expects to submit his record to them as a candidate for re-election in 1970."

"If re-elected, he will serve out his entire six-year term."

Not all Democrats were certain the disclaimer of 1972 presidential intentions would stick.

"I'm certain Sen. Kennedy was sincere," said Sen. Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, "but the party may think otherwise."

If Kennedy is indeed out of the field, it would be cleared for such likely contenders as Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, possibly Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma.

There had been silence but, among politicians, little suspense since Kennedy said in a July 25 television speech he was considering resigning his Senate seat because of his involvement in a fatal automobile accident one week earlier.

Kennedy asked the advice of his Massachusetts constituents. The response was an outpouring of messages, heavily in favor of his continued Senate service.

"So what else is new?" asked George D. Aiken of Vermont, dean of Senate Republicans, after Kennedy announced he would return. "Didn't you expect it?"

"You don't think 30 million Democrats are going to stand by idly and see another Republican senator come here, do you?" said Aiken.

He apparently referred to the fact that any Massachusetts Senate vacancy would no doubt be filled by a Republican, since the state's governor, a Republican, would be expected to appoint a GOP member to the seat.

Most other Republicans were silent. "Should I have a reaction?" said Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen. "I haven't got one."

Democrats welcomed Kennedy's return.

"His decision is good for the country, for Massachusetts, for the Senate and for the Democratic party," said Sen. Harris, the Democratic national chairman.

Harris said he hopes Kennedy will be able to undertake party fund raising missions for the coming congressional campaign.

"We continue to have requests for him to speak," said Harris.

Sen. Inouye, chairman of the Senate Democratic campaign committee, said the group "has plans to utilize his many talents."

"I'm certain Sen. Kennedy will participate in campaigns outside his state," Inouye said. "He said he had checked with Democrats who had asked for Kennedy's campaign help, and no one had changed his mind."

Kennedy is rated a top-heavy favorite in his own re-election bid in Massachusetts.

Father, Son Drown Near Bald Knob

BALD KNOB, Ark. (AP) — A father and his son drowned Tuesday in Big Hurricane Lake east of Bald Knob.

Coroner Allen Foster identified the victims as Charles Melton McGinnis, 40, of Searcy and 4-year-old Timmy Dean McGinnis.

The two were in a boat which nosed into the water when the motor was started while in gear and the front end was heavily loaded.

Two others were in the boat, but swam to shore. They were McGinnis' 13-year-old son, Perry, and the man's on-in-law, James Goodman of St. Louis.

The Cold Facts About the Arkansas Education Association

The Arkansas Education Association does a pretty good job of misrepresenting the public school teachers, the latest example being the AEA's threat to oppose the proposed new state constitution if the final draft authorizes cities and counties to levy a local sales tax.

The reason, of course, is that AEA wants to increase the state sales tax from 3 to 4 cents, with the 4th cent reserved exclusively for the public schools. This very proposal was beaten decisively in the last session of the General Assembly. And if cities and counties should be permitted to enact 1-cent sales taxes then the total sales tax at these local levels would become 4 cents—making any proposed 4-cent state levy actually 5 cents and fanning the taxpayers to a fury.

What the AEA refuses to admit is that the schools are only a part of—not the entire—State of Arkansas.

What the AEA conveniently overlooks is that the public school organization has systematically been given special tax treatment in the past and systematically abused the privilege.

Time was when the schools were limited to 18 mills taxation, and therefore local school boards worked zealously to uphold the property assessment base against which this limited levy was extended. But the 18-mill ceiling was removed. School boards then concentrated upon unlimited millage and paid less attention to maintaining the assessment base.

Along came the state sales tax making the public schools the main beneficiary, and school boards virtually abandoned their responsibility for fair assessments.

This is the public record of the AEA and the school boards of Arkansas.

But while millage ceilings were being removed to help the schools no such relief was given either the city or county governments. And as the assessing level sank further and further below actual market values, due in main to school boards' neglect, city and county tax revenues were crippled.

Naturally the cities and counties began turning to the state government for a share of the state sales tax—completing a vicious circle which the AEA and local school boards started.

Now the natural remedy would be to cut off city and county governments from state sales tax aid and permit them to vote a 1-cent sales tax of their own.

And the state sales tax under no circumstances should be permitted to rise above the present 3 cents. Then and then only will the AEA and local school boards be compelled to recognize their primary responsibility of seeing justice done at the local assessing level—and picking up revenue in the process.

This is the Star's long-term tax program. Your editor feels a personal responsibility. He was one of the original sales tax proponents back in 1934 and 1935, saw it corrupted into a substitute for property taxes over the years, and once spent $18,000 of his own money in a futile effort to change the tide. Neither local government nor your editor are in a mood to hear "advice" from AEA and the school boards with their wretched public record.

Yesterday's edition of The Star was more than an hour late because of a rare accident on the press. The 12-page edition required use of three of the big press' five printing units. A spot-weld failed, dropping a big pulley to the floor, requiring the closing down of that particular unit and the activation of another unit.

But since the aluminum plates once bent and put in place can not be transferred, two new plates (four pages) had to be made for the new unit put in use.

The faulty weld was replaced this morning, making all five press units once more available.

Arkansan Killed in Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hospital Corpsman L.C. Charles L. Hackworth, husband of Mrs. Shirley Hackworth of Pocatonton, has been killed in the Vietnam war.

6 Months for Surtax Enacted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today for a six months extension of the 10 per cent income tax surcharge instead of the full year's continuance asked by President Nixon.

The 59-48 vote was to adopt a rider sponsored by the Senate Democratic leadership to a House-passed bill providing for the extension to Dec. 31.

However, the Republicans will have a late opportunity to offer an amendment calling for a 12-month extension so the initial result was not conclusive.

The Senate moved quickly into voting in the showdown over the bitterly debated surtax issue.

Both sides decided to forego most of the time allotted them for debate.

While Nixon has been pushing for a 12-month extension Senate Democratic leaders, seeking to keep up pressure for general tax revision, agreed to support only a six-months extension.

Before the vote on a six-months extension, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader in the Senate, said President Nixon would sign such a bill if that is all Congress would pass.

The Senate vote came on the final day of a one-month extension of higher withholding rates based on the 10 per cent surtax. Authority for the levy itself expired June 30, but the withholding rates were kept up in anticipation of a retroactive passage of the tax.

Even if final congressional action is not completed by nightfall, it is expected that employers will be urged to continue the higher withholding rates.

Showers Due for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mild to warm weather with some showers should continue in Arkansas through Friday, the U.S. Weather Bureau said today.

Temperatures will range mainly in the 80s and the low 90s during the days. The high Wednesday was 90 at El Dorado, Fort Smith, Jonesboro and Memphis.

The high pressure that has been dominating Arkansas weather has weakened and began moving eastward, triggering some rain and thundershowers in the western portion of the state.

A cold front is expected to move down from Kansas into North Arkansas by early Friday morning, creating a continuation of shower activity.

Lows tonight are expected to be in the upper 60s to upper 70s. Overnight lows included 55 at El Dorado, 67 at Fayetteville, Little Rock and Pine Bluff, 68 at Jonesboro, 69 at Harrison, 70 at Memphis and 73 at Fort Smith and Texarkana.

A trace of rain was recorded at Texarkana, .02 of an inch at Harrison and Fort Smith and .33 at Fayetteville during the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. today.

Freed in Assault on a Picket

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Dalton Blankenship was found innocent Wednesday in Forrest City Municipal Court of a charge of assault and battery of a Negro picket.

The complaint had been filed by Mrs. Matilda Williams who alleged that Mrs. Blankenship struck her with a broom while Mrs. Williams was picketing Mrs. Blankenship's store July 11.

Mrs. Blankenship denied hitting Mrs. Williams with the broom.

Mrs. Williams testified that Mrs. Blankenship swept dirt "over my feet" and then struck her on the leg with the broom. Another picket gave similar testimony.

Mrs. Blankenship said she did sweep dirt onto some feet, but did not look up to see whose feet they were.

Kuznetsov Defection Likely to Make It Tough on Red Writers

By JOHN WEYLAND

Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The defection of Soviet writer Anatoli V. Kuznetsov will probably lead to a further crackdown on the arts in the Soviet Union.

The Kremlin is expected to try to make sure that no other writers critical of the Soviet system attain enough standing to be able to embarrass the Kremlin.

Kuznetsov disappeared Monday night during a visit to Britain, and the British government announced Wednesday that he had been granted permission to live permanently in Britain. The writer said he defected because he feared reprisals if he returned to Russia.

The leadership that ousted Nikita Khrushchev in 1964 has shown a consistent pattern of restricting the few outposts of liberalism that remain in Russia.

Writers Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel were given stiff prison sentences in 1966 for what the state decided were anti-Soviet writings. This was a clear warning that the Khrushchev thaw had ended.

Other actions against liberals or champions of artistic freedom followed. Recently Yevgeny Yevtushenko, perhaps the best known young Soviet poet abroad, was dropped from the editorial board of the magazine Yuznost (Youth). Rumors have been circulating that Alexander

Nixon Visits India, Recalls Gandhi Plea

By FRANK CORMIER

Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Nixon arrived in India today for a friendly and tumultuous welcome in 96-degree weather, and then sat down alone with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to discuss the problems of the world's largest non-Communist nation.

Nixon got off to a good start with his Indian hosts by telling them at the airport that the United States wants to work with them "for the goals you believe are best for India, not our goals, but goals in which we all believe."

The American President also recalled that in 1953 Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, Mrs. Gandhi's father, told him that India wanted "a generation of uninterrupted peace."

"Our major goal now is to succeed in that dream Mr. Nehru had then—a generation of peace for India, Asia and the world," Nixon said.

"We want our generation to be remembered as the generation that set foot on the moon and as the one in which we had uninterrupted peace and justice for man on the earth."

Thousands of friendly Indians cheered the President along his route into the city, but at one point about 400 young demonstrators waved black flags at him and shouted slogans against

Alas, False Prophet That He Is, Hal Boyle Now Must Eat 2 Hats

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Has any man on earth ever eaten a space helmet?

Well, facing me is the dubious pleasure of consuming not one but two.

This unusual gastronomic task results from succumbing to the most alluring of temptations that beset a columnist—the desire to forecast the future. The columnist rashly forgets that the neck he happens to stick out happens to be his own.

On Nov. 29, 1963—another of those days that will live in infamy—I wrote a column which contained this flat-footed prediction:

"There's a lot of talk about landing a man on the moon by 1970. But I'm willing to eat the helmet of any man who gets to the moon and back by 1975."

A reader who must have the memory of a passel of pachyderms dug up my flat-headed paragraph and sent it to Tom O'Neill, features editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, who relayed it here with the simple notation:

"Okay, Hal—how about it?"

Well, I'm a man of my word, and I don't mind too much having to munch down those first two space helmets. But we have a number of other moon landings planned before 1975, and if I have to eat the helmets of all our successful lunar astronauts, I'm likely to wind up with 15th place.

Naming of Justice Jim Stirs Anger

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — References to former state Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson of Conway on the floor of the state Constitutional Convention brought objections Wednesday from Delegate Robert W. Meriwether of Conway.

In debate on whether justices of the Supreme Court should be elected, delegates opposing the election of justices used Johnson's election to the court in 1958 as an argument for an appointive system.

Delegate David Solomon of Helena called Johnson's defeat of Justice Minor Millwee "the worst thing that ever happened to the judiciary." Other delegates also made remarks about Johnson's election.

Meriwether said the remarks were "entirely out of order" because Johnson was not in the chamber to defend himself.

He said delegates should be careful not to question the character of people during debate and he said he would rise and object in the future when derogatory references were made.

European 'Teen-Agers' Review Year in U.S. and Find It All Good

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — To Michael Scholtissek of West Germany, the United States is "the generosity of its people." To Virpi Salminen of Finland, it's "shopping centers." And to Koos Dalstra of Holland, it's the fact that "everything is so big here."

Michael, Virpi and Koos are among 800 European high school students who spent the past year living with American families under the auspices of the Youth for Understanding program. The group sailed for home late Wednesday night aboard the SS Aurelia.

The youngsters, almost all of whom spoke excellent English and looked just like American teen-agers, reminisced about their year in the United States at a pre-sailing news conference.

"I tried not to have any expectations," said Michael, 18, when asked whether he found the United States different than he had imagined. He said he found no difference between American and German teen-agers, but added, "Here, everyone can do what they want to do. You're not labeled." Michael spent the year with a Los Angeles family.

Virpi, an 18-year-old blonde who stayed with a family in Virginia Beach, Va., said of the United States, "Actually, I didn't expect anything. Every-

3 Killed in Argument Over Safety

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say a dispute over enforcement of safety factors led to the gunshot deaths of three men at Lockheed-California Co.'s Burbank plant.

When the shooting ended Wednesday, a supervisor, a union leader and another valued, longtime employee lay dead.

Isaac Jernigan Jr., 29, of Los Angeles, was booked on suspicion of murder. A spokesman for the Lockheed complex—which builds both military and commercial aircraft—said Jernigan had a record of insubordination, especially failure to observe rules designed to prevent workers from possible injury or death.

Officers said former Jan. H. Domonoske reprimanded Jernigan Wednesday for refusing to wear safety glasses in an area of the template shop where they both worked.

Observers told officers that a dispute ensued and Jernigan used a .38-caliber revolver to shoot Domonoske, also 49, of nearby Glendale, twice—once in the chest and once in the head.

Investigators said Jernigan—apparently having learned that the union had approved of Domonoske's position—ran three quarters of a mile to headquarters of Lodge 727 of the International Association of Machinists.

At the hall, police were told, Jernigan asked to see Thomas McNett, 55, of North Hollywood, president and founder of the 12,000-member lodge. McNett had been with a group of retired unionists in an adjoining patio and was talking with two women.

Those present said Jernigan yelled, "Mr. McNett!" They said that when the union leader turned, he was struck by three bullets.

Hurricane Threat Averted

MIAMI (AP) — A cold low pressure center aloft clapped a lid on Tropical Storm Anna today and forecasters prepared to end a hurricane watch in the end and banana islands of the eastern Caribbean.

"For the moment at least, Anna has had it," said Dr. Robert H. Simpson, chief of the National Hurricane Center.

"A cold low pressure center in the upper air is blocking the outflow of air up the chimney. It's like putting the lid on a smokesack. The fire goes out."

With her top winds down to 45 miles an hour, the first 1969 storm in the Atlantic hurricane belt was expected to zip across to the north of the northern Leeward Islands, hitting them with nothing but rain.

8 Shot at Black Panther Headquarters

CHICAGO (AP) — Five policemen were struck by shotgun pellets during a gun fight early today at the West Side headquarters of the Illinois Black Panther party.

Three men were arrested after a 30-minute exchange of gunfire which was observed by 300 persons who lined Madison Street and jeered the 50 policemen.

The neighborhood of the headquarters at 2350 W. Madison St. is predominantly Negro.

One of the injured policemen, Richard D. Curleyn was admitted to a hospital for treatment of a wound in his right thigh.

A fire started in the second floor Panther headquarters during the gun fight. It was quickly extinguished and a fire official said it was started by one of the many tear gas canisters fired by police.

Police and Black Panther spokesmen differed on how the gunfire barrage began.

Curleyn said he and his partner, Edward Kendzior, were fired at from the second floor of the Panther headquarters building after they stepped from their squad car to question two men they saw with shotguns.

Kendzior radioed for help and policemen from three districts converged and formed two raiding parties.

Capt. Paul Call, police district commander, said the shooting erupted at 1:15 a.m. He said reinforcements formed raiding parties.

One group blasted its way down the first floor and down a heavy door with several locks.

"The building was dark," Call said, "and we didn't know what was at the top of the building."

Another group of police tried to get to the second floor from an alley at the rear of the building.

Patrolman Robert Flynn, a task force officer, said he and his partner found three men lying on the back porch. Flynn said the men shouted, "Kill the pigs," then hanged at the policemen.

The men were subdued in a brief scuffle and taken to a hospital for treatment of lacerations caused by flying glass. The three men, all Negroes, were identified as Joseph Hayman, 20, Alvin Jeffrey, 25, and Larry White, 25. They were charged with attempted murder, aggravated battery and resisting arrest.

A woman bystander and a Black Panther official contradicted the policemen's version. The woman said she saw the police drive up to the building, step from the car and begin firing at the building.

Jewell Cook, the party's field secretary, said he talked with other bystanders and confirmed the woman's story. He said similar tactics were used recently in raids on Panther offices in other cities.

Willie Calvin, who said he is a Panther defense captain, also accused the police of starting the gun fight.

Cook said the Panthers have strict orders not to fire first but to return any gunfire directed at them.

In May, the FBI raided the Panther headquarters and arrested several persons who were charged with harboring a fugitive.

He said four handguns were confiscated. Several police cars were damaged during the shooting and Call said the bystanders threw bottles at police when they attempted to disperse the hecklers.
